Family's tribute to 'dearly loved' dad

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

THE grieving family of a "dearly loved" builder who died in a car crash have paid tribute to him.

Daniel James, from Ashen, was founded dead after his BMW careered into a ditch.

The vehicle was found on Ashen Road, near Clare, at 6.15am on Sunday, but it is thought it could have left the road as early as 11pm the previous night but was not spotted by passers-by because of bushes.

No other cars are thought to have been involved in the crash, which killed the 56-year-old father-of-two.

In a statement, the family asked to be allowed to grieve at "this very difficult time".

They said: "Danny was a dearly loved husband of Jane and father to Becky and George.

"He was a friend to everyone who knew him. All family members and his friends will miss him very much.

"Danny worked as a builder and was interested in music, equestrian sport and reading."

Friends described Danny as a "larger than life character", who always had time stop and talk.

Pupils go green with eco-week

MINI bottle greenhouses, musical instruments crafted from junk and eco T-shirts were just some of the creations produced by a group of primary school children during an ecology week.

Pupils at Kedington Primary School were also involved in other eco activities, including designing posters with a green message, gardening, constructing model wind turbines and making solar water heaters.

Year 3 pupils designed and painted their own eco T-shirts, which they wore for a special 'wear something green day'.

Two members of staff from weights and measures firm Herberts visited the school to help children build mini bottle greenhouses.

The school has had an eco-link with Herberts for the past 18 months and the Haverhill firm has sponsored several activities. For ecology week, employees Dawn Brand-Cotti and Paul Basham delivered two-litre plastic bottles that employees had collected. They then spent the afternoon helping children build the first two walls of the greenhouse.

The company will continue to collect bottles for the school so that the project can be completed in the next few weeks.

Police are linking burglaries

COMPUTER and electrical equipment was stolen in two burglaries in the same street in Haverhill.

Police are linking the break-ins at Brickfields.

The first was between 11pm on Wednesday last week and 6.30am the next day, when offenders got into a house through an insecure door and stole keys, cash, an iPod and two laptops.

The second offence happened between 12.30am and 6.45am last Thursday, when entry to the house was again through an insecure door and an Xbox, bank cards, a digital camera, laptop and mobile phone were stolen.

Calls should be made to DC Paul Gant at West Suffolk CID on (01284) 774 100.

Bid to track down queen

TRADERS organising a celebration in their street in July are hoping to find out more about the origins of its name. Pupils from several schools in Haverhill have designed striking new gates shaped as leaves, which will be put up at either end of Queen Street and officially opened to coincide with the end of the school term on Friday, July 16. Traders are planning an event to join in the celebration, to show people what the street has to offer.

Organisers of the event would like to know when the street was named, after which Queen and why. They hope to arrange a fashion show in the street and other events with a regal 'Queen' theme.

Anyone with information about the street or who would like to become involved in the event should ring (01440) 707772 or email soniassalon@hotmail.com.

Gardens to boost funds

NEW Friends of All Saints' Church in Castle Camps will be holding their annual open gardens event on Sunday with proceeds going towards church restoration funds. Entry is £4 with accompanied children free, and tickets, which cover entry from noon-6pm, are available outside the school, including a map and description of the gardens. Refreshments will be available from 2pm.

Thieves take car

A BLUE Nissan Navara, registration GK06XZM, was stolen from a garden at Malting End, Wickhambrook, between 8pm on Tuesday last week and 6.30am the next day. Calls in relation to this incident should be made to Pc Ian Holyland at Bury St Edmunds police on (01284) 774100.

Time for tea party

A STRAWBERRY tea party in aid of the Breast Cancer Care charity will be held at 14 Grenadier Road, Haverhill, on Wednesday from 1.30-4pm and 7.30-10pm.

Pond helpers call for more facilities

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Four members of the same family who have cleared a fishing pond ready for the new season are calling on their local council to improve facilities in the area.

Brothers David and Peter Williams, their brother-in-law Stan Pridmore and nephew Keith Petherick, who is now bailiff for the Newt Pond at Castle Playing Fields in Haverhill, have been cutting back vegetation and repairing fishing bays.

Although only officially opened last year after the pond received a £60,000 facelift with Lottery Funding granted to the Parkway Residents' Association, some of the riverbank has already eroded near the fishing platforms, leaving dangerous gaps.

Last year, a new £110,000 children's play area opened nearby, but the anglers feel that more maintenance and facilities are needed, particularly toilets, so the area can be used to its full potential.

David Williams said he and his family were willing to work as volunteers to get the pond up to scratch for the new fishing season.

They are also working with the park ranger service to start fishing competitions and sessions for youngsters to learn to fish.

However, they are concerned that the area will deteriorate if it is not properly maintained.

Mr Williams said they were told by St Edmundsbury Borough Council that toilets would cost around £160,000 to provide, but believed this could be done much more cheaply and would be willing to try to raise half the money needed.

Mr Williams said: "I don't know where they get these figures from. We could get builders to come and do the work, most of it for nothing, if the council would pay half."

"They say it is health and safety, but an angler could easily break his leg on these platforms."

"We want to make it really nice up here for people to enjoy, but it needs to be looked after. They say there is no money, but £96,000 was raised for a Parkway Community Centre which went straight back into the council coffers. Surely they could use some of that to build toilets."

A borough council spokesperson said: "The council and the Parkway Residents' Association worked together and were awarded a grant from the Big Lottery fund to improve the Newt Pond area and the volunteers continued assistance in maintaining this community asset is greatly appreciated."

"We know that they would very much like a public toilet built in the pond and playground area and we also know that they are aware that the council does not have the resources."

"There are picnic tables and benches around the pond, but if the volunteers believe that more are needed we will investigate."

New town clerk to earn £50k

HAVERHILL Town Council is getting ready to appoint a successor to its town clerk when he retires next year – at a salary range of £50,000 rising to almost £56,000.

Gordon Mussett has been town clerk for most of the time since the formation of the town council in 1989. He has given notice of his intention to retire next May, when elections will be held and a new town council formed.

At a meeting of the council's personnel committee on Tuesday, a job description and draft job advertisement was approved for Mr Mussett's successor. The post is described as town clerk and responsible financial officer, at local government scale 4, £49,486 rising to £55,772, plus local government pension scheme.

With a population of almost 24,000 and a precept in excess of £1million, Haverhill is in the top tier of town/parish councils.

The council is corporate trustee of the Town Hall Charity, which runs the arts centre, and the successful applicant would be expected to be both clerk to the trustees and managing director of the charity's trading company.

Aunt's parachute jump to help crash victim

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A BRAVE young woman who broke her neck in a car accident earlier this year – but is determined to walk again – will get a cash boost from a parachute jump in August.

Toni Cant, 22, is currently receiving treatment at Stoke Mandeville Hospital after losing the use of all her limbs in the crash, which happened at Shetland Road, Haverhill, on January 1.

No-one else was involved in the crash in which Toni's car hit a wall. Police believe she may have hit ice.

Toni, of Alderton Close, Haverhill, has been confined to a wheelchair since the accident and was transferred from Addenbrooke's hospital to Stoke Mandeville in April.

She has a four-year-old daughter, Scarlett, who is being cared for by her father at Red Lodge and is taken to visit her mother as often as possible.

Although doctors have said she is unlikely to walk or even regain Battling on: Toni Cant, before the accident.

use of her arms, Toni has already defied medical expectation by coming off a ventilator and is aiming to walk out of the hospital by the end of the year.

Her aunt Natalie King, who is terrified of heights, is planning to attempt a tandem parachute jump at Headcorn Airfield on August 5, and hopes to raise as much money as possible through sponsorship to make her niece's life as comfortable as possible.

Toni's mum Moira, who had stayed in hospital with her daughter until recently, said: "I have got so much admiration for her and the way she has coped with it.

"She is like, it has happened and we have got to deal with it, not woe is me. She is so determined that it is not going to beat her. She told the physio to push her as hard as she could, she is not one to give up.

"Her consultant said if there is not any sign of movement after three months it is unlikely that there will be. But she is so determined, I think that is half the battle.

"She did not have any brain damage and they said she would not come off a ventilator, but she did, so perhaps there will be a miracle. That is what we are all praying for.

"She has started painting with her mouth and they are trying to get her biceps moving so that she can do things we all take for granted, like brushing her hair and teeth or scratching an itch.

"She is going to need a lot of equipment to help her and it is not going to be cheap."

Sponsor forms for the parachute jump are available at the Weekly News office in Queen Street, Haverhill.

Firms take up challenge to boost hospice funds

COMPANIES are battling it out against each other to prove their business acumen by raising the most money for their local hospice.

Companies across Haverhill will be competing with more than 35 other businesses in a bid to be crowned number one in a new fundraiser from St Nicholas Hospice Care.

Staff members at Tesco, Cineworld and Crem Recruitment in Haverhill have all signed up to the Accumulator Challenge, which officially began on June 10.

The three-month challenge will see businesses in Haverhill, Sudbury and Bury St Edmunds go head-to-head to raise as much money as possible from a £50 stake.

While a fun fundraiser, the Accumulator Challenge comes with a competitive edge with businesses encouraged to raise the most money, and by the most innovative ways, with a league table regularly produced charting their progress.

Abby Hunt, corporate fundraiser for the hospice, said: "We have been delighted by the support shown by businesses across West Suffolk and we are really excited to see who comes out on top."

The £50 notes were given out at a special launch and were donated by event sponsors Towergate Risk Solutions from Bury.

Prizes will be handed out at the end of the Accumulator Challenge in September, with categories including most innovative idea and an outstanding teamwork award.

More information on the challenge is available at the website www.stnicholas-hospice.org.uk

Would-be bosses can get advice

ENTREPRENEURS can get support and advice from an enterprise agency at a series of drop-in sessions in Haverhill.

Menta (Mid Anglian Enterprise Agency) is holding the sessions as part of a project to help people from the town and surrounding area to become their own boss.

The sessions at Haverhill Library, Haverhill Leisure Centre and Haverhill Arts Centre will enable people thinking of starting a business to find out about the support available.

They will also be able to book a free one-to-one session with a business adviser and book free courses on financial issues, marketing, sales, and e-commerce for those considering self-employment held at Menta's Hollands Road office.

The initiative is part of a £100,000 project run by Menta that is funded by the European Social Fund (ESF) and the East of England Development Agency (EEDA).

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

As part of the programme, Menta has appointed its first community champion – Chrissy Proctor, a Haverhill mother-of-two, who has experience of running businesses locally and will run the drop-in sessions.

She said: "Running your own business is incredibly rewarding but it's not for everyone."

"We are offering an opportunity for people in Haverhill, no matter what their background or current employment situation, to find out more."

From now until the end of July, Menta will be at the Haverhill Arts Centre Cafe on Thursday mornings from 9.30am-12.30pm, and alternate weeks at Haverhill Library and Haverhill Leisure Centre on Friday mornings from 9.30am to 1pm.

Police praise for fans

FOOTBALL fans have been praised by the police for their good behaviour following the start of the World Cup.

Suffolk police last week issued a warning that drink fuelled domestic violence and anti-social behaviour would not be tolerated during the tournament and encouraged wives and girlfriends to report any incidents.

But Pc Les Scott, of Haverhill police, said the force was pleased with football fans' behaviour, saying no problems related to matches had been reported so far.

He said: "The behaviour within Haverhill has been very good and we want to keep it that way."

"A lot of the pubs have been showing games and we have had patrols out in the town and the estates over the weekend and everything has been extremely positive."

Little readers set sail for storytime

TINY tots took a trip to the seaside by visiting their local library – and got a free book when they arrived.

Haverhill Library joined others across Suffolk in organising Bookstart events, with a seaside theme this year, to encourage pre-school children to start enjoying books at an early age.

As well as receiving a free book, youngsters could enjoy Baby Bounce sessions, with soothing songs and gentle nursery rhymes for babies and their grown-ups, Storytime, full of stories for young children accompanied by an adult, and Tot Rock which featured music, songs and action rhymes for toddlers with their parents and carers.

Regular story telling sessions for children are held at the library. For more information call (01440) 702638.

Medicines taken in surgery raid

MEDICINE was stolen by thieves who broke into a veterinary surgery at Hamlet Road, Haverhill, early on Tuesday morning.

They searched rooms and broke into locked containers and medicines were taken. A residential flat above the premises was also entered.

There were believed to be two offenders involved, both described as male.

Calls in relation to this incident, which occurred at around 1.50am, should be made to Pc Maria Allgood at Babergh CID on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Couple found guilty of fraud

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A COUPLE have been found guilty of defrauding the husband's elderly father of more than £14,000.

A jury at Ipswich Crown Court convicted John and Carol Apps on Monday.

During the week-long trial, the jury heard how the couple had gained control of John Apps's father's bank accounts and withdrawn the cash, mostly for their own use, during a six month period.

The couple, of Bellings Road, Haverhill, had both pleaded not guilty to three offences of fraud by abuse of their position between November 2007 and June 2008.

Carol Apps, 36, and her 41-year-old husband claimed that John James Apps senior, had been fully aware of what was happening and been in full agreement. Nothing had been done without his permission, they said.

But Richard Potts, prosecuting,

Son and daughter-in-law 'bled dry' pensioner's bank accounts

said the pair had "bled him dry", leaving the pensioner with rent and council tax arrears and little in his bank accounts.

When Mr Apps senior finally returned to his home in south Essex, he had just 35p left in his Abbey National account, £1.29 in the Post Office and £8.40 with Barclays.

At the same time, the pensioner was facing rent, council tax and electricity bill arrears of more than £1,200.

Mr Apps senior has since died, but he had left behind four statements in which he denied that he had given his son and daughter-in-law permission to make cash withdrawals, other than for paying his bills.

The court heard that Mr Apps senior had lost his own home in Grays, south Essex, when it was repossessed after it was re-mortgaged to help his only son and daughter-in-law out of financial difficulties.

The 80-year-old pensioner, a former Port of London worker, had moved into sheltered accommodation at Grays and following the death of his wife Eileen, he stayed for a while with his son in Haverhill.

John Apps claimed that his father "didn't have a clue" about managing his finances and the couple became involved to help him.

He said that he would rather have still had his mother and father than any of their money.

He claimed that his father had handed him an Abbey National cash card, telling him to use it if he needed to.

The couple were released on bail until they reappear in court next month to be sentenced.

Savings have to be made

Sir, What makes Conservative Cllr Tim Marks think that £700 a day is “small beer?” Perhaps he should get real and find out just how much average workers get paid in a year.
 Cllr Lisa Richards says she hopes hiring Jill Rawlins, temporarily, will make it possible to “drive through more savings than the post will cost us”, thus ensuring a good deal for Suffolk taxpayers. I feel ratepayers will want not just hope, but a definite assurance that massive savings will be made.
 Jane Storey’s attempt to justify the extremely high, proposed, daily salary of £700 by stating that one post doesn’t offer sick pay, pension or other benefits is an extremely feeble one.
 I agree with Matthew Elliot of the Taxpayers’ Alliance that the appointment will leave the region’s taxpayer with an “astronomical bill”.
 The appointment also seems to defeat the need to face up to the “age of austerity” that is upon us.
 He also says that the “county council should make do with communication staff they already have.” If not, can the county council justify why not.
 If, after the initial six month contract, it becomes clear that no savings of costs have been made to the people of Suffolk then Jill Rawlins should repay all her earnings with interest.

The picture brought back fond recollections for several readers. Roy Brazier, of Haverhill and District Local History Group, was musical director with the society at the time and recalls it was only the group’s second production. Those pictured are, from left, Tony Dopson, the late Frances McGechan, Heidi Smith and Jenny Hanlon. Mr Brazier still has the programme from the show and a set of photographs taken at the time. Haverhill THE May meeting of the Townswomen’s Guild was attended by 35 members who were entertained by Pamela Hutt and Jane Carter. They described the	various healing properties of aloe vera. The company they represent does not test their products on animals. More than 200 varieties of aloe vera are used as medicines. It was thought to be used	by both Nerfertiti and Gandhi. Members were invited to try various creams and had the opportunity to buy products. ## Bikes star of show

SOME gleaming chrome and paintwork will liven up a Cambridgeshire village as competitors ride in for its fourth annual bike show.
 The event will take place at Castle Camps Recreation Ground on Sunday, June 27, from 2pm to 6pm.
 The show has best-in-class competitions for all types of motorbikes, a hog roast, refreshments and a variety of stalls and activities for a family outing.
 It will also have a stall to support Magpas, which last year raised more than £200, with the show raising more than £1,000 for the village hall charity.
 Entry will be £3 per adult, with free entry for children and OAPs.

Prisoner freed in identity con

A PRISONER was on the run this week after convincing jail staff into believing he was a different inmate and due for early release.

Brazen James Whitlock, 25, walked straight out of HMP Edmunds Hill in Stradishall at 9am on Monday morning unchallenged by guards.

Incredibly Whitlock was given permission for early release after applying to the Prison Service for licence using another inmate's name who was serving a sentence at the same prison.

Prison staff only realised the blunder and raised the alarm after Whitlock, who was serving two years nine months for theft, had left the site.

Members of the public who spot Whitlock have been warned not to approach him but contact police immediately.

A Prison Service spokesman said: "We can confirm that a prisoner from HMP Edmunds Hill left the prison without authorisation after claiming a licence for temporary release in another prisoner's name.

"An investigation has been launched at the prison and this matter is now in the hands of the police."

The Prison Service was unable to confirm how much of his sentence he had already served.

Whitlock was described as white, of slight build, with brown hair. He was last seen wearing a blue and white short sleeve top and blue jeans.

Suffolk police said he has connections to Walton on the Naves, Great Dunmow, Frinton on Sea, Kirby Cross and Chingford in the Essex area, and to Maidenhead in Berkshire.

A spokesman said: "If anyone sees Whitlock they should phone the police with the details. They should not approach him or take any further action."

HMP Edmunds Hill is a category C prison which caters for 379 inmates who cannot be trusted in open conditions but are classed as unlikely to escape.

It has boasted a string of illustrious inmates including singer Boy George, Jade Goody's ex-husband Jack Tweed and disgraced Met Police chief Ali Dizaei.

Anyone with information should contact Suffolk Police on (01473) 613500 or their nearest police station.

Networking in store for chamber

ONE of the country's largest farmer-owned businesses will host the next Haverhill Chamber of Commerce networking evening.

Camgrain Stores, in London Road, Balsham, was established in 1983 and is the UK's largest farmer-owned central storage business. The event takes place at its premises from 6pm to 8pm next Tuesday and is a change of venue from that previously advertised.

Chamber meetings are open to members and non-members of any business in the Haverhill area, from those just starting out to sole traders and large companies.

The meetings allow people to network with other businesses and shout about their company.

Anyone who wishes to attend the event should email suewarren@haverhillchamber.co.uk

Visit www.suffolkchamber.co.uk/haverhill to find out more about the chamber and its activities.

Changes will affect your state pension payments

Haverhill Citizens Advice Bureau this month talks about changes to state pensions, the National Insurance qualifying period amendments and how the age at which women will receive it is going up.

Q: I am a couple of years off retirement age. I know I won't now get my state pension at 60 but I'm unclear about exactly when I'll qualify and whether I'll be entitled to a full pension when I stop work. Can you help?

A: State pensions changed from April 6 this year. If you reach state pension age on or after that date then you will get a state pension under the new system. For most people the changes will happen automatically, but you may need to take action to make sure you get everything you are entitled to. To get a full basic state pension, currently around £95 per week, you will only need to build up 30 qualifying years of National Insurance contributions or credits. Under the current system, women normally need 39 qualifying years and men 44 qualifying years. To start getting some basic state pension, you will only need one qualifying year of National Insurance contributions or credits. Under the current system, you need to build up a minimum number of qualifying years to start getting some basic state pension – 10 years for women and 11 years for men.

Changes to state pensions will also make it easier to get a full basic state pension for many people with caring responsibilities.

If you are a woman, the earliest age from which you can start getting your state pension will increase from the current age of 60. The state pension age for women is rising gradually between 2010 and 2020 to make it the same as for men, currently 65. Your own state pension age depends on your exact date of birth.

You can get a forecast telling you how much state pension you may get when you reach state pension age from the Directgov website. You can also find out what information you'll need before you apply. Go to www.direct.gov.uk. Directgov also has lots more information about changes to the state pension from April 2010.

Apprentices come out top

WEST Suffolk College won seven out of nine awards in a regional apprenticeship competition.

Five apprentices and one HE learner carried off a host of titles at the awards, organised by the National Federation of Builders (NFB) Suffolk Joint Consultancy Committee.

Stephen Lumm, from Haverhill, won the award for Year 1 carpentry apprentice.

Tommy Weatherill, from Woolpit, was named the best Year 1 painting and decorating apprentice.

Tommy works for Heron-build of Stowmarket.

Tom McKenna, from Great Wheltenham, was named the Year 2 building services apprentice of the year.

Tom works for All Aspects Plumbing Solutions Ltd, Bury St Edmunds.

Joel Ashby, from Lakenheath, was chosen as the best Year 2 bricklaying apprentice and also carried off the accolade of apprentice of the year.

Joel works for Ben Warren Building Services, Bury St Edmunds.

Andy Banham from Glemsford, a construction site manager for Elliston, Steady and Hawes, was given the outstanding training opportunity award.

Andy is doing an NVQ4 in construction site management at West Suffolk College.

Peter O'Brien, from Bury St Edmunds, who is now in the third year of an advanced apprenticeship at West Suffolk College, was named as the best Year 2 carpentry and joinery apprentice.

Peter works for Hugh Kime Carpentry, based in Bury St Edmunds.

Learning all about a construction-related skill can lift earnings

LOCALLY-BASED Skills 4 Trades has been trading for three years now and has recently relocated to new premises.

The organisation offers daytime, evening and weekend courses for anyone interested in learning construction-related skills, and has taught and helped school children, school leavers, the unemployed or recently-made-redundant as well as those simply looking for a new career direction.

Skills4Trades teaches construction skills leading to City & Guilds qualifications. All the trades are covered including plastering, plumbing, electrics, bricklaying and more.

College Principal Glen Horscroft explains: "Our achievement figures for our courses are second to none and have been for two years running. What makes a real difference with our centre is that it is family run by people who believe in what they are doing and enjoy it! Haverhill needs a facility like this where people can come and broaden their prospects. We have found over time that confidence is such a big part of people who come here, the majority of the time we see a real difference in the people who complete at our centre. The atmosphere is friendly and relaxed and the centre is open to people of all backgrounds and ages.

"We specialise in retraining people already in work. For these people we can offer daytime, weekend or evening courses to help people break free from their existing work commitments. People also do our courses so they can earn extra of a weekend. It is easily possible to earn an extra £600 per weekend plastering. Our private courses are the best prices in the country and that a fact!"

Skills 4 Trades is situated at Unit 10 Spring Rise, Falconer Road, Haverhill. For more information, contact (01440) 761991 or 07887 800601.

Silver band enjoys German sunshine

HAVERHILL Silver Band visited its German twin town and joined a local choir for its anniversary concert.

The musicians went to the area around Ehringshausen, following an invitation by Werdorf Choir to join them in the concert.

The band, numbering 26 players, was conducted by Mark Ager for three concerts in two days. Pictured is the band playing at their first engagement, a Friday lunchtime concert in the brilliant sunshine in the town square at nearby Herborn.

The Haverhill Twin Town Association was visiting at the same time and on the Saturday lunchtime they were treated to a short concert by the band with their German hosts.

The Werdorf Choir's 145th year anniversary concert was on the Saturday evening and involved three local choirs and the band. The band, playing in sweltering conditions, delivered a rousing and mixed programme and received a standing ovation.

Haverhill musicians stayed with choir members in the village of Werdorf, who looked after them for the duration of their visit.

The mini-tour was assisted by band president and deputy mayor Les Ager, who also accompanied members on the trip, and Cllr Anne Gower greatly aided financially with a Suffolk community grant of £1,000.

Greene King Brewery also contributed by discounting several cases of local ale as a gift for the choir.

The band kicks off the Haverhill Festival on the Market Square on Saturday from 5.30-7pm with a free concert. If wet, the performance will be in St Mary's Church.

Don't be a fall guy – seek aid

FALLS cost the NHS £13 million a year and can have a devastating effect on those who suffer them.

As part of National Falls Awareness Week, the Integrated Care Team at Haverhill is putting on an event to help educate patients and carers about how falls can be prevented.

The event will be at Haverhill Health Centre next Thursday, from 10am to 2pm for patients and carers to drop in and obtain information.

Community nurses will be present at the event, carrying out blood pressure checks.

Sarah Edwards, one of the community team, said: "There will also be a physiotherapist, an adviser on assistive technology, a pharmacist and a smoking cessation adviser.

"They will be able to give advice on improving mobility, how medications can contribute to falls and what can be done to help with this, help for carers to have greater awareness of when a patient is at risk of falling (which is where assistive technology comes in with the use of sensory devices) details of exercise opportunities for elderly people and help in how to stop smoking.

"Falls cost the NHS £13 million a year and there is also the cost to the individual such as fear of falling, injury, disability and even death. One in five patients who fracture a hip die within 12 months and half never regain independence.

"There will be a number of leaflets available and we will have details of the pendant alarm system for people living on their own."

Tea and coffee will be available. The event is directed towards people who have had or are at risk of falls and carers or relatives who need help or information.

MPs in call for health funds

A GROUP of Suffolk MPs are calling on government ministers to improve health service funding and rural broadband access for their constituents.

New West Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock, along with the county's other MPs, have sent letters to Secretary of State for Health, Andrew Lansley, and Secretary of State for Culture, Olympics, Media and Sport, Jeremy Hunt asking them to look at the issues.

The letter to Mr Lansley demands that both Suffolk PCT, and also Great Yarmouth and Waveney PCT, "get the money that they deserve".

They claim that under the current funding formula, the PCTs were handed £10million less than they actually needed.

They wrote: "We are writing to ask you to address our concerns that funding for health care is not fairly distributed, and that Suffolk does not receive its fair share. We are concerned that the current funding formula has resulted in unfair funding inequalities for PCTs in different regions, and especially between cities and rural areas."

In their second letter, they urged the minister to steer clear of a "digital divide" between rural and urban areas regarding access to faster broadband service.

They wrote: "Our county currently suffers many 'not spots' and 'slow spots', particularly in rural areas, which impacts businesses today and runs the risk of Suffolk being left behind."

Meet your local team

SAFER Neighbourhood Teams will hold police 'street meets' at Sainsbury's, in Haycocks Road, Haverhill, from 10-11am on Saturday.

Another will be held on Thursday, June 24, at Tesco in Cangle Road, Haverhill, from 6pm-7pm.

Daughter's grief death inspires a

WEARING a cute mini-dress and skyscraper heels, Jasmine Taylor answers the door with a dazzling smile.

Bright, bubbly and beautiful, with an impossibly contagious laugh, the professional model appears a picture of happiness.

"D'you fancy a cup of tea?" she asks, walking through to her sunny sitting room. "I'm gasping for one . . ."

Beneath the smiles, though, there's an inconsolable sadness. Last year, Jasmine lost her adored step-father: a devout Muslim, he was attacked leaving a South London mosque – and beaten to death.

"When he died, a part of me died with him," admits Jasmine. "I can go to Tesco and do the shopping, buy a paper, watch TV, meet friends, and nobody would know anything was wrong. But, deep down, I feel this emptiness: I feel like a shell of a person."

The death of Jasmine's step-dad, Ekram Haque, hit headlines: believed to be a racist attack, CCTV footage showed a hooded gang ambushing the 67-year-old – right in front of his 3-year-old granddaughter.

"He'd just opened his fast and had gone outside for a smoke," explains Jasmine. "These guys just came out of nowhere . . . He suffered a serious head injury. He went into intensive care, but then he died."

"He was just such a great person. Don't get me wrong, he had his flaws – we all do. But he was loving and kind and genuine. To him, everyone was equal: he never judged anyone. He was the best person I've ever met, the best person I'll ever meet."

Jasmine, who runs both her own modelling agency and a marketing business, has just launched a nationwide campaign in memory of Ekram.

Called Find Love, it aims to spread happiness – via social events and workshops – and raise cash for good causes at the same time.

"It's about finding love in the purest sense, whether it's romantic love or friendship or simply a passion for doing something new," explains Jasmine, 30. "He always used to say 'Find love in everything you do. Just find love and be happy'. I thought 'How can I make his legacy live on?' – and Find Love was the result."

Jasmine will be hosting her first Find Love charity auction, in Cambridge later

When her step-dad was killed by a gang of hoodies, model Jasmine Taylor was left devastated. She has launched a campaign to make the world a better place in his memory. Interview by ALICE RYAN this month.

She's holding it in aid of The Eve Appeal, the national charity which funds research into gynaecological cancers; as well as raising funds, it's designed to be a networking night for local businesses.

"It always amazes me how few people actually know the person working in the office next door," explains Jasmine. "Find Love is all about reaching out and making contact."

Raised in Liverpool, Jasmine is the middle daughter of an Indian prince, who came to the UK as a young man to work as a GP.

Sadly her real father died in 1988; when she was 9, Ekram came into her family's life.

"At first we were a bit like 'You're not our dad, you can't tell us what to do', as three girls would be," she admits.

"Actually, that's not really the case for my little sister, Ruby. She was only 3 when he came into our lives; he was her papa. "And my older sister and I soon realised that he wasn't the enemy, he was our friend. In fact, he became our rock."

Ekram was a vital source of support to Jasmine when, aged just 19, she was involved in a terrifying car smash. It left her in intensive care with a fractured spine – and the fear she might never walk again.

"My mum was in India at the time, having treatment for her rheumatoid arthritis," explains Jasmine, "so it was Ekram – we called him Uncle – who took the call."

"He came straight to the hospital and he was so, so strong. He kept telling me that I was OK, that everything would be fine . . . Last year he told me that he actually went out into the waiting room and cried, but he didn't want me to see the anxiety in his face. He wanted me to believe I would get better – which I did."

It took six long and painful months for Jasmine to recover. "I had to learn to walk again," she continues. "I even had to learn how to hold my head up. It sounds silly, but it's amazing how hard it is to hold your own head up – and to walk down steps. We take these things for granted, but it wasn't easy to learn them over again."

Clearly a very determined character, Jasmine went on to fulfil her dream of becoming a # over step-dad's link to love . . .

model; among many other things, she shot an ad campaign for Selfridges. A keen singer/songwriter, she also threw herself into her music; she writes pop, rap and R&B.

"Ekram always loved my music," she laughs. "He used to dance around to it. A lot of people who knew him would be surprised to hear that!" Although Ekram never married her mother, Jasmine describes the couple as "soul mates, two peas in a pod – they had exactly the same sense of humour". The pair lived together until 2002, when Ekram moved to London.

"They still used to speak three or four times a day, and they saw each other once or twice a month," explains Jasmine. "But he wanted to move and she didn't; she'll never leave the house my dad bought."

When Jasmine married husband David, a year and a half ago now, it was Ekram who gave her away. Looking at a photograph of herself in her fairytale wedding dress, Ekram smiling proudly at her side, Jasmine's eyes well with tears.

"I've still got his wedding suit," she says. "After he died I said I had to have it. I brought it home and hung it next to my wedding dress, which is where it will stay. It still smells of his aftershave. Sometimes I hold the jacket to my face, close my eyes and pretend it's him in front of me, not a suit on a hanger."

Ekram was also there when baby Katrice – Jasmine and David's adorable little daughter, every bit as smiley and gorgeous as her mum – was born.

"She's my world," adds Jasmine. "If it hadn't been for her, I don't know how I would have coped since he died. She's like a little ray of sunshine."

In August of last year, just a few weeks before he died, Ekram came to stay with Jasmine in Cambridge. "We went to Debenhams shopping," she recounts. "Ruby, my little sister, wanted to buy clothes as usual. I didn't want anything, but Ekram kept picking things up and saying 'How about this? I'd like to buy you something'. In the end he insisted on buying me a silver top. The first time I wore it was to see him in hospital. I told him 'I'm wearing that top you bought me – open your eyes so you can see how it looks' . . . I really thought he might open his eyes, but he never regained consciousness."

As well as his three step-daughters, Ekram had a son of his own; on the night he was attacked, outside his local mosque in Tooting, his tiny granddaughter was with him.

Jasmine was on holiday in France. In fact, she, David and Katrice had only just arrived – after a gruelling 17-hour journey – when they got the news Ekram was critical in hospital. Driving straight back to the UK, Jasmine remembers seeing Ekram lying in the intensive care bed: "I was shaking him, saying 'Wake up! Why isn't he waking up?' . . ."

Despite doctors' efforts, Ekram died of his head injuries. Later this month, a group of teenage boys will appear in court in connection with the case.

Looking down at the rings on her fingers – two of which, one worn on each thumb, belonged to Ekram – Jasmine says: "I just want these kids to realise what they've done, to show some remorse. If they can do that I truly believe they'll be OK, that they'll get better. I do believe people can change."

Jasmine says she herself has changed since Ekram, a retired care worker, died.

"It might sound strange, but I think I'm a better person," she explains. "Wherever I am, whatever I'm doing, I'm constantly thinking 'What would Ekram Haque have done?' – I know he would always do the right thing."

"If I see someone in the supermarket looking a bit sad or lost I go up to them and ask if they're OK; the other day I helped an old lady find the ice cream. I know what it's like now: I've been that person standing by the magazine rack trying not to cry."

Jasmine admits she's found it hard to move on since Ekram's death. Victim support has, she says, been invaluable, but she still thinks about her step-dad constantly.

"We're actually about to move house," adds Jasmine. "Wherever I look in this house, I see him; it's too full of memories."

But Jasmine says launching Find Love has given her a focus. "It's amazing how generous people have been," she says. "When I contacted Cadbury they didn't think twice, they agreed to support Find Love straight away. That kind of response is brilliant; it means a lot."

Thanks to support from Cadbury KOKO, Safestore in Stevenage, Virgin Media, Homebase, Charles Tyrwhitt, Don Pasquale in Cambridge, Octopus in Cambridge and Boots, she's got a whole host of auction prizes waiting to go under the hammer in aid of The Eve Appeal.

Jasmine says she is sure Ekram would be proud of her efforts. "I know it's what Ekram would have wanted: Find Love is designed to spread happiness and support charitable causes, two things he did throughout his lifetime," she adds.

"If everyone stopped and wondered 'What would Ekram Haque have done?' from time to time, we'd all be better people for it – and the world would be a better place."

Young compete for trophies

A CHURCH'S first Junior Performing Arts Festival was a resounding success – with an even bigger one planned for next year as part of the Haverhill Festival.

The event at St Mary's Church in Haverhill on Saturday was organised to celebrate the graduation of its musical director Richard Hart with a degree in sacred music.

Youngsters competed in under-12 and 12-16 age groups for the Richard Hart Junior Performing Arts Trophy. Accompanist was Gwen Cracknell and the judges were Jane Bone, Greta Mays, David Hart and Richard Hudspeth.

Organiser Mary McLatchy said: "It was wonderful, the standard was very high and it was very difficult for the judges. The atmosphere was lovely, we all thoroughly enjoyed it. It will be a much bigger event next year and we hope to make it part of the Haverhill Festival. This was done in a hurry and I am thrilled with the result."

Winners of the 12-16 years trophy were the string quartet of Steven Huckfield, Rosemary Start, Bartie Shirm and Lewis Tingey. Equal second place went to vocalist Sarah Exton and Steven Huckfield on violin, with Charlotte Allin third.

In the under-12 section, 10-year-old Flora Davison won the trophy, with the Davison Trio of Flora, Sophie and Katie second and George Allin third. Lucy Espin, aged 8 and the youngest competitor, was fourth.

Church welcomes classical masters

INTERNATIONALLY acclaimed musicians are on their way to a quiet corner of the countryside.

Tucked away between Cambridge and Saffron Walden, the idyllic village of Hadstock has one or two surprises up its sleeve – chief among which is its church, notable not only for reputedly the oldest door in continual use in the UK, but also for its sublime acoustics.

It's the wonderful properties of the church's sound that underpins the 2010 Hadstock Music Festival.

Village resident Bernard Lanskey, director of the Yong Siew Toh Conservatory of Music, Singapore, and former assistant director of the Guildhall School of Music, said: "There is something very special about St Botolph's. Every detail of the music can be heard, and the space offers constant inspiration in sound."

This year's programme sees international musicians performing in the church across a week of events, starting on Sunday with a recital by Felicitas Fuchs, soprano, Aki Sauliere, violin, and Bernard Lanskey, piano. These three international stars return to Hadstock to play works by Bach, a UK premiere by Andrew Schultz, De Falla and Elgar.

Tuesday sees Qian Zhou, violin,

William Coleman, viola, Pierre Doumenge, cello, and Lanskey play works by Schumann, Franck, Poulenc and Ginastera.

On Thursday, June 24, Daniel Tong, piano, William Coleman, viola, Qian Zhou, violin and Lanskey will play works by Beethoven, Schumann and Brahms.

The series of concerts ends on Saturday, June 26, with stars of the future: musicians from the Guildhall School of Music and Drama, London, performing a programme of chamber music including Beethoven, Schumann and Rebecca Clarke.

All concerts start at 7.30pm.

Demand to hear such exceptional international performers will be high and space in the church is limited so music fans are urged to secure their tickets in advance from Saffron Walden tourist information centre, Market Square, Saffron Walden, or phone (01799) 524002

Tickets are £10 adults, £8 concs. Children under 11 free. Season tickets (£30/£24) are available from the tourist information centre, or on the door, space permitting.

Full details of the programme and the artists are on the website www.essexinfo.net/hadstockchurch

Big screen action from World Cup with Buddy ravin' on . . .

Comedy, and the footie too

WATCH England's march to the World Cup final on the biggest screen at the Haverhill Arts Centre.

The boys take on Algeria tomorrow at 7.30pm, followed by Slovenia on Wednesday at 3pm. Admission is free, but tickets are required. Doors will open 45 minutes before the game, with the bar and snack shop available. No unaccompanied under-16s. Take advantage of the big screen action, with surround sound, in a child-friendly environment.

■ The Haverhill Festival kicks off with a harmonica workshop on Saturday with Steve Lockwood.

Whatever your level, from complete beginner to advanced, this workshop will supply you with tips to improve your blues and pop playing and get the best out of this deceptively simple instrument. The workshop begins at 11am and finishes at 4pm and is suitable for anyone over the age of 14.

■ Marc Robinson, from Stars In Their Eyes and Buddy: The Musical, gives a remarkably accurate performance of 50s icon Buddy Holly.

He will be joined at Saturday's concert by the Counterfeit Crickets and the show will also feature Michael King's tribute to Billy Fury.

The fun starts at 7.30pm.

■ The Arnold Sinfonia bring you music for a summer's evening on Sunday at 7.30pm, featuring a mixture of jazz arrangements and light classics with Andrew Booth, one of the most exciting young guitarists in the UK.

The programme includes pieces

Radio favourite: Rabbi Lionel Blue will appear as part of the Haverhill Festival later this month. CP

Rabbi's tales simply divine

RABBI Lionel Blue, known to millions for his radio broadcasts, will be appearing at Haverhill Festival.

Mr Blue – whose voice and offbeat sense of humour will be familiar to Radio 4 listeners, but who is also known for his books, including Bolts from the Blue and Simply Divine – will take to the stage on Sunday, June 27, at 8pm.

Using his own experiences and offbeat sense of humour, Lionel Blue tells a selection of stories, incidents and conversations whose dotty, inconsequential flavour will appeal to people from all religions, and from none.

He said: "My aim is to give people the courage to get out of bed."

He will be appearing at Haverhill Arts Centre and tickets, which cost £15, are available from the box office on (01440) 714140 or online at www.haverhillartscentre.co.uk from Cole Porter and Villa-Lobos.

■ One of the country's finest and most original comedians and impressionists, Phil Cool, returns to the arts centre on Friday, June 25, at 7.30pm.

With a degree in "faceology", he is legendary for his facial contortion expertise. A 'stand-up chameleon', he punctuates his show with a wealth of hilarious anecdotes, observations and routines that make him as funny and unique as he was in the 1980s.

■ Follow the exploits of three young men working at an insurance firm in rural England in the late 1970s in the latest collaboration between Ricky Gervais and Stephen Merchant (The Office, Extras). Cemetery Junction

(15) screens tonight at the arts centre at 7.45pm and Monday at 1.30pm.

The digitally remastered ballet classic, The Red Shoes, (U) is showing on Monday at 7.45pm and is described by famed director Martin Scorsese as "the most beautiful Technicolor film ever made".

Finally, Made in Haverhill, which showcases a series of films created by young people in Haverhill, is showing on Thursday, June 24, at 7.30pm.

It's free entry and everybody is welcome.

CUSTARD Comedy has surpassed itself this month with possibly one of its best headliners ever – the brilliant Ivan Brackenbury, who comes to Comberton Leisure tomorrow.

He won Spirit of the Fringe, was nominated for the prestigious Perrier and made Chortle's Top 50 Gigs of the Decade, along with Eddie Izzard, Chris Rock and Bill Cosby.

The London Evening Standard says "for simple laugh til you ache humour, Ivan Brackenbury is a hit" He's also won plaudits from The Times, Time Out and The Guardian.

And if that's not enough to tempt you away from the World Cup action, there's also Hils Barker, who is "wonderful and funny," says Time Out. If Newcomer nominee Mike Wozniak and Comberton's favourite compere Henry Paker.

Despite this fantastic night of entertainment, there might still be some people who'd prefer to watch England instead.

To oblige, the leisure centre will set up a giant screen next door where they can watch the football and then come and see Ivan for £5.

■ Custard Comedy, tomorrow, 8pm, £8 (£6 cons) advance or £10 (£8 cons) on the door, £5 headline only, Comberton Leisure, (01223) 264444 or www.wegotickets.com/event/82276

The big film

GREENBERG (15, 107 mins)
Comedy. Ben Stiller, Greta Gerwig, Rhys Ifans, Chris Messina, Jennifer Jason Leigh. Director: Noah Baumbach.

MISERY loves company – our company – in writer-director Noah Baumbach's deeply depressing character study, based on a story conceived with his wife, actress Jennifer Jason Leigh.

The film provides funnyman Ben Stiller with a rare opportunity to prove himself as an actor.

Unfortunately, the gifted comedian doesn't possess the emotional range to embody his nuanced role with conviction, undermining sterling work from the rest of the cast.

Co-star Greta Gerwig, one of the leading lights of the low-budget, mumblecore indie film circuit, leads the way with a sweet, charming and at times heartbreaking performance that reveals the chinks in her character's brittle armour.

Regrettably the focal point of the film is Roger Greenberg (Stiller), a 40-year-old malcontent who walked away from a recording contract and potential fame and fortune with his band, Magic Marker.

He gave up everything to become a carpenter – a useful trade to smooth out the rough edges of Stiller's wooden performance.

He moves temporarily to Los Angeles to house-sit for his brother Phillip (Messina) and keep an eye on the family dog, a German shepherd named Mahler.

Phillip's personal assistant Florence (Gerwig), who is still raw from a recent break-up, pops in every day to run errands and tend to the mutt. She is strangely drawn to Roger and the pair begin an off-on-off-on-off romance that does both of them more emotional damage than good. Meanwhile, Roger rebuilds bridges with former band-mate, Ivan (Ifans), and tries to motivate himself to build a dog kennel.

Greenberg is unrelentingly bleak and the central character doesn't have one likeable facet.

"I throw a party last minute and then I am disappointed when nobody comes," laments Roger at one point. Surprisingly no one informs him that his noticeable lack of company is probably because he sucks the life out of a room simply by entering it. Why a beautiful young woman like Florence, emotionally wounded though she may be, would give him one glance, let alone two, is a mystery. "Life is wasted on . . . people," proclaims Roger at one point – it's certainly wasted on him because all he does is hurt the people around him without any thought for the repercussions.

The end of this 107-minute therapy session cannot come quickly enough.

Make the most of patio climbers in containers

If you need height and colour on your patio and you have a couple of large pots to hand, there's still time to plant a mixture of climbers to cover an obelisk or wigwam this summer to provide you with a riot of colour.

Sweet peas are the most obvious choice and are still available in garden centres. Just a small pot of them should give you enough plants to cover canes or other supports and when they flower you should cut them regularly to give you the same scent and colour indoors as you'll have outside.

With sweet peas, the more you pick, the more prolific the flowering will become. Don't let them run to seed or the plant takes that as an indicator that flowering is over and will stop producing more blooms.

Some clematis work really well in pots and good garden centres can recommend suitable types for the size of the pot and the area you have to cover. Clematis which build up a framework of branches, such as the early and mid-season hybrids, are the easiest to train, but take note of the height they'll reach before investing.

by Hannah Stephenson

Good specimens for pots include C. 'The President', which has deep purple blue flowers from late spring to early autumn, growing to 3m (10ft) and C. 'Edith', which bears large white flowers and deep red anthers, growing to 2m (6ft).

Some climbing annuals can provide a blaze of colour during the summer months, including black-eyed Susan (Thunbergia alata), which is perennial in its native Africa, but an annual here. Its stems wrap around supports to reach 2.5m (8ft) and it produces pretty yellow or orange flowers with a chocolate eye from summer through to autumn. Put it in a sheltered spot, shaded from the hottest sun.

If you have a sunny corner and you want a tropical feel to your patio, invest in the canary creeper (Tropaeolum peregrinum), which produces bright yellow flowers with large upper petals that look like a bird's wings. It will flower all summer and can reach up to 4m (13ft) tall.

Of course, no obelisk would be complete without nasturtiums, those sizzling flowers in shades of acid yellow, orange and red, which can ideally be placed near the kitchen so you can add the peppery leaves and flowers to salads. Look for the climbing varieties such as T. majus 'Jewel of Africa' and T. majus 'Tall Single Mixed' to give you columns of colour all summer long.

Other climbers which are ideal for containers include Morning Glory (Ipomoea tricolor), a half-hardy annual with large, trumpet-shaped flowers in blue or purple which will reach 1.5m (5ft) in a pot, Clematis 'Evening Star' and 'Kingfisher', as well as Trachelospermum jasminoides 'Variegatum', one of the best-scented white climbers, which bears showers of starry white flowers which turn cream as they age.

When choosing a climber for the patio, select a container at least 45cm (18in) deep and wide. Plants always do better in larger pots. Bear in mind that one container thoughtfully positioned can serve as a focal point. If you want more than one pot, plant matching or toning plants in containers grouped around it, but not masking the climber itself. Make sure the grouped pots are similar in style and colour.

BEST OF THE BUNCH

Astrantia These dainty-looking perennials, with basal clumps of divided foliage topped with small flowers, often whitish-green or bluish-pink, grow to 60cm (24in), an ideal height for the middle of a border. They're Going up: nasturtiums, with sizzling flowers in shades of acid yellow, orange and red, can be placed near the kitchen so you can add the peppery leaves and flowers to salads.

extremely easy to grow in any soil in either sun or partial shade. Astrantias have soft, subtle colours which fit into most colour schemes. A. major 'Sunningdale Variegated' contrasts well with the purple foliage of Viola labradorica in spring, while its white flowers make a cool companion against sizzling red crocosmias. Other good varieties include A. major involucrata 'Shaggy', which has white flowers with a collar of long petals, A.

major 'Rubra' with plum-coloured flowers and A. major 'Claret', one of the darkest-flowered astrantias, with deep, ruby red pincushion-like flowers with a ruff of longer bracts than many other varieties. Although it is an old cottage-garden favourite, this astrantia works equally well in contemporary-style plantings. Add plenty of organic matter to the soil before planting and don't let them dry out.

What's your Ecomotive?

Seat has new Ecos

SEAT's latest class leader, the new Leon Ecomotive, made its UK debut this week and, with hundreds of orders already under its belt thanks to SEAT UK's largest single fleet deal to date – 500 new Leon Ecomotives to British Gas – the omens already look pretty good for the super-frugal new Spaniard.

Showcasing cutting edge engineering, including SEAT's use for the first time of Start/Stop technology and Brake Energy Recovery, the sleek new five-seater underlines the Spanish brand's determination to make itself a leader in the area of environmentally responsible motoring.

It's perhaps no surprise, then, that the latest Leon sees its CO<sub>2</sub> emissions slashed to just 99g/km (the same as the original Ibiza Ecomotive) while its combined fuel economy figure of 74.3mpg gives the Leon a range of almost 900 miles between fill-ups.

Even in town, with an official urban figure of 60.1 mpg, new Leon Ecomotive owners can look forward to far less frequent refuelling stops.

The Leon shares its place in the spotlight this week with other Ecomotive-badged newcomers as both the new Altea Ecomotive (pictured above) and Altea XL Ecomotive make their debuts, too.

Boasting the same powertrain as their slightly less capacious cousin, the Altea models do without the aerodynamic adjustments that help the Leon to its exceptional stats. As a result their economy and emissions figures can't quite match the Leon's – although 119g/km of CO<sub>2</sub> from both cars is hardly profligate. Combined fuel economy of 62.8mpg for both cars is not to be sniffed at, either.

All three cars are available in both S and SE specifications, and all boast a dizzying array of standard equipment to give the lie to the idea that 'economy' and 'luxury' are somehow mutually exclusive.

Air conditioning, stylish 16-inch alloys, one-shot electric windows all round, ESP, ABS, TSC, Hill Hold Control, tyre pressure monitoring, six-speaker stereo radio/CD with MP3 compatibility and AUX-in – these are not the hallmarks of an 'economy' car.

Prices for the new models start at £16,840 (SEAT Leon Ecomotive S) and, with the Spanish brand's current Economics offer that drops to as little as £15,090.

Dealers are driving force for Two Counties

MOTOR enthusiasts are revving their engines in anticipation of the Two Counties Motor Show which takes place in two weeks.

Organised by the Cambridge, Ely and Newmarket Lions Clubs, the Show takes place at the Rowley Mile Racecourse in Newmarket on Sunday, June 27 from 10am to 5pm.

This year, EMG will bring along top models from Subaru, Mazda, Fiat and Kia, the UK's fastest growing manufacturer.

Economic motoring is a recurring theme this year, and EMG has some clever solutions ranging from the seven-year warranty on all Kia models, through special finance on the Mazda 2 and MX-5 models, to the innovative fuel saving start/stop technology on the Fiat Punto Evo and Fiat 500.

EMG's Kevin Driscoll is a big fan of the event. He said: "It's the only show in East Anglia that's solely dedicated to cars."

"We've been coming ever since the very first one and have grown along with it; it's an important event on the motoring calendar."

Tony Summersgill from ALS Lock has also supported the show from its inception said he was proud of the Skoda range he will be exhibiting.

"Skoda have just been awarded manufacturer of year by Which? magazine," he said.

"Skoda has gone through an amazing transformation in recent years and now offers superb quality and value for money."

ALS Lock will be displaying their whole range, including the new Yeti, Skoda's cost-effective 4x4.

Driving his way out of the tough economic climate, Steve Harris from Marshall Citroen has a green ace up his sleeve.

Taking star billing on the Marshall Citroen stand is the all electric C1 Ev, a four-seat family car that never needs taking to the petrol station and doesn't incur any road tax charges.

Two Counties Motor Show: A great day out for all.

Based upon the popular Citroen C1, the Ev is powered by a 30kW electric motor and a bank of lithium/ion batteries.

Joining the C1 Ev will be the new Citroen DS3 and the new C3 as well as the full range of SEAT models including the racy Cupra FR.

Cambridge Saab are experiencing something of a rebirth at this year's show. Saab's new owners, Spyker Cars, are determined to rebuild the brand back to its original heritage of an alternative but distinctly individual Swedish motoring experience.

Tickets for the show cost £5 for adults and £2 for children aged 12-16; parking is free and all proceeds help to raise much-needed funds for local charities.

Economy check could save 25% on fuel bills

FORD'S new Econo Check service will help its customers reduce fuel bills by up to 25 per cent.

Ford Econo Check offers a vehicle inspection, extended analysis of driving style and advice on how to improve fuel economy.

Aimed at most vehicles up to 12 years old, the Econo Check starts with a check of all components which influence fuel use.

A Ford technician will carry out checks on the vehicle and then fit a small detachable data logger to the vehicle, which remains in the cabin for seven days.

The logger will reveal enough data on driving speed, anticipation, braking and gear change to issue a personalised report.

The emailed report will recommend the driving style adjustments that could lead to reduced fuel consumption and emissions.

The Ford Econo Check package can save up to 25 per cent on fuel – or £470 annually for the 12,000 miles a year motorist.

A Ford Econo Check costs £29.99, with £15 refundable against the next scheduled service. An additional £15 BP Ultimate fuel cashback voucher is on offer.

Available at Ford dealerships from July 9.

Visit www.fordeconocheck.com.

Ford Econo check: From July 9.

Rovers get hands on silverware

HAVERHILL Rovers under-13s have collected the rewards for their efforts in the Cambridge and District Colts League.

After just one season with manager Paul Goodings, they topped the under-13F division and received their trophies at the league's presentation evening in Cambridge.

It was a triple night of celebration for Rovers, whose under-14 side were called up to collect their trophies for earning promotion as under-14B runners-up, while the under-15s also attended the presentation after finishing second in under-15A.

The under-14s are looking for a manager to take control of their campaign in the A division next season. The club says previous coaching experience is preferable but they are happy to finance a coaching course if needed.

Applicants need to contact club secretary Jo Rose on 01440 764978 or 07773 893939.

Well done: Rovers' under-13s (above) and under-14 players (below). CP

THURLOW under-13s are looking for new players for their Cambridge and District Colts League campaign next season. As a club, they say they pride themselves on giving every boy a chance and add they are looking for enthusiastic players

Juniors cruise

HAVERHILL are through to the semi-finals of the Suffolk Junior Team Handicap Cup. They cruised to a comprehensive victory against Bury St Edmunds. Details: Richard Boyles won 2 & 1 against J Nicholson, Mike Perrett won 7 & 5 against M O'Keefe, Charlie Sigler lost 3 & 2 against D Smalley, Liam Merritt won 1 up against O Smith, Lewis Whiting won 1 up against H Turner and Mitchell Davis won 1 up against D Warren.

The club's Junior Skills Challenge was well supported and head professional, Paul Wilby, said: "It's fantastic to see our Juniors progress, as these skills are transferred to the golf course."

"As a result, many of them have had their handicaps reduced significantly."

Winners - 0-12 section: Chris Vince. 13-24 section: Michael Perrett. 25-36 section: James Higham. Non-handicap section: Joshua Hulyer.

Haverhill's early birds were out in force for the club's Midsummer Madness competition.

More than 70 players were up at 5.30am for the four-player team stableford competition, where three of the scores counted.

Winners, with an incredible 131 points, were Charlie Hudson, Russell Gitty, Del Thomas, and Trevor Broomfield.

Paul Donno, Keith Donno,

Challenging: Youngsters and helpers at the Junior Skills Challenge. CP

Ellis Woko and Roger Hartley were second with 126 followed by David Roope, Andy Softley, Tim Daniels and Geoff Bush with 122.

Colin Rudge topped the June Medal event which was also played as the final leg of the Cecil Darken Cup. He carded an impressive nett 62 with Peter McLennan one shot adrift. Both have had their handicaps reduced by two shots.

However, third place in Division Two of the medal earned Andy Softley the Cecil Darken Cup, which is played over three legs with the best two medal scores counting.

Division One - 1 Mark Stanton 77-12-65, 2 Lee Chandler 73-7-66, 3

Alastair Cocks 79-12-67. Division Two: 1 Colin Rudge 79-17-62, 2 Peter McLennan 76-13-63, 3 Andy Softley 78-13-65. Division Three: 1 Andrew Martin 91-21-70, 2 Peter Knight 91-21-70, 3 Mark Wray 94-24-70. Cecil Darken Cup: 1 Softley 70, 65-135, 2 Alastair Cocks 71, 67-138, 3 Russell Gitty 73, 66-139.

Paul Houchen won the men's midweek medal and has had his handicap reduced by a shot.

Details - Division One: 1 Paul Houchen 71-6-65, 2 Michael Warren 75-8-67, 3 Edward Fairhead 79-12-67.

Division Two: 1 James Bowser 86-18-68, 2 Kim Ward 82-13-69, 3 Trevor Broomfield 89-19-70. Division Three: 1 Ken Johnson 96-27-69, 2 John Ward 91-22-69, 3 Duncan Watson 96-26-70.

Haverhill's senior section had another good day, beating Towerlands 4½-3½.

CRICKET STICK CCA SENIOR LEAGUE

Division One: Balsham 106 for 5 (20pts) Dodington 105 (4pts), Cambridge St Giles 137 for 8 (7) Kimbolton & Catworth 138 for 9 (20), Camden II 134 for 9 (20) Fulbourn Institute 133 (7), Hardwick & Caldecote 172 (20) Horseheath 170 (9), Histon 187 for 2 (20) Wilbrahams 186 (5).

Horseheath hit by blaster Reed

HORSEHEATH were put to the sword by Brockley's Joe Reed in the Adams Harrison Midweek League.

They were sent spiralling to the foot of Division One by the master blaster, who slammed a chanceless 109 in Brockley's 208 for 5, a score boosted by three impressive sixes from James Jones.

Horseheath must have been hoping for the best, particularly with big-hitting Gary Ellis - a centurion himself the previous week - and Dan Goldsmith in their side.

But Goldsmith fell early and Ellis was caught in the deep for 66 as Horseheath subsided to 152 against Dan Cowley (4 for 20) and Tristan Blackledge (3 for 32).

Stuart Whitehart dominated the Division Two clash at Hurdon where Long Melford triumphed.

He took 3 for 12 to restrict the home side to 122 and then hammered an unbeaten 63 as Long Melford got home at 123 for 2 to go top of the table.

Manor eased to victory at Mill Green with Liam Savage scoring an unbeaten 40 in their 111 for 5 and Dan Webb snapping up 4 for 16 as Mill Green slipped to 110 for 8.

And Great Yeldham cruised to a comprehensive victory against Highpoint in the league cup. Lee Phillips took 3 for 18 as Highpoint limped to 62 for 7, and William Bryant's unbeaten 38 powered them to 63 for 0 in just 6.2overs.

Adam Taylor helped Weston Colville to a 30-run win over Cambridge NCI in Division Two of the Tucker Gardner Cambs and Hunts Premier League.

Batting first, Colville scored 218 for 8, with Taylor top-scoring on 61.

Mark Thompson (56) and Amadeep Cheema (42) did their best for NCI but Alex Meddle snared five victims and the losing side were dismissed for 188.

Champion: Steve Santry, winner of the English Lightning Rods title.

Santry storms to title delight

>> Motorsport

LIGHTNING Rod driver Steve Santry is on cloud nine after winning the English Championships at Northampton Stadium in an amazing race against time. The West Wratting driver topped 34 of the top cars, finishing third and 12th in the heats before winning the final. And victory came as something of a surprise to Santry, who is backed by Safebox Self Storage of Cambridge. "Before this win I have managed to blow up three engines and write off my car," he said. "To achieve this win with a car that was built by an entirely in-house team in just two weeks is fantastic." Charlie Schneider, manager of Safebox, said: "We are delighted for Steve, given the trials and traumas of the previous weeks."

Before this win I have managed to blow up three engines and write off my car. To achieve this win with a car that was built by an entirely in-house team in just two weeks is fantastic.

Ready to go: Steve Santry on the grid at Northampton. CP

>> Cricket: Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship and Sunday league round-up

SKIPPER Joe Woodley has urged Haverhill's Sunday first team to step up to the plate after they suffered a crushing defeat against Worlington in the Hunts County Bats Suffolk League. The visitors were rocking at 39 for 4 off 14 overs after an opening burst by Woodley (3 for 21) and Dan Poole (2 for 31). But wayward bowling allowed them to recover to post 194, with Steve Fox taking 4 for 52 off eight overs. Winless Haverhill's reply stuttered from the start. The reshuffled batting order lost a wicket to the first ball and, despite 34 from Dan Poole and 23 from Russell Davis, they could only reach 126. Woodley said: "We are not helping ourselves at all. Our bowling needs more heart and consistency. "The guys have got to start showing they want to stay in this division. I believe we are good enough. We have to be more selfish when batting and this is the only way we will start winning games." They try to get their season back on track at home to Lakenheath on Sunday (1.30pm).

Skipper in plea to side

The second team had no such problem disposing of Elveden in Division Four, scoring at twice the required rate to overtake the hosts' 104 for 7 with six wickets and 18 overs in hand. Elveden's safety-first approach was gradually undone by spinners Chris Thompson (2 for 31 from eight overs) and Anthony Phillips (4 from 17 off 10), backed up by some good fielding and exceptional wicketkeeping from Alex Archer, who made two stumpings. Phillips continued his form with 36 before Martyn Wilkins (36 not out) and Archer saw Haverhill home in a match where nine of the 11 wickets were snapped up by spinners. The seconds are at Long Melford on Sunday.

Stuart blitz sets up crunch clash

SOMETHING has to give on Saturday when first plays second in Division Two of the Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship at Manor Road. Haverhill take on leaders Woodbridge & OW at home (1pm) with everything to gain as they head into the second half of the season. They have identical playing records – both have only lost once – but missed the chance to size each other up when their first clash on May Day was rained off. Haverhill warmed up for the match of the day by cruising to a six-wicket win at Dunmow. Stuart Ketteridge clinched a hat-trick in a four-wicket haul, while former England Test star Chris Silverwood claimed three wickets as Dunmow were dismissed for 203. Dan Poole struck an unbeaten 59 and Robbie Ketteridge 49 not out as Haverhill responded with 204 for 4. ■ Greg Street defied the pain from a groin injury to power Haverhill II into second place in Division Six of the Two Counties Championship. With Sam Hartshorn acting as his runner, Street powered to an unbeaten 73 as the seconds saw off Ipswich III by eight wickets on an overcast, breezy day. Street's innings really took off in a 125-run unbroken third-wicket partnership with Dan Wilkins, whose great range of strokes punished any loose bowling on his way to an unbeaten 62 as Haverhill reached 156 for 2 in their pursuit of Ipswich's 154. The visitors never mastered a controlled attack and slumped to 62 for 7 before an aggressive stand of 64 between Smith (38) and Greig (31) steadied the innings. Steve Fox took 3 for 54, Dan Webb 2 for 15, and Wilkins 2 for 49 in what was later described as "a much-improved bowling performance all round". A spokesman continued: "It was a very good win against experienced opponents and a very good team performance. "This season could be one of ups and downs and we should enjoy the victories but the next game (Nacton away on Saturday) will also be tough so we must not rest on our laurels." >> Results, tables – Page 51
